The EBT Free Loader 38' Pattern is one of the shorter EBT proprietary patterns. At 38 feet, bowlers will naturally want to play around second arrow. This should be avoided! The Free Loader has high volumes of oil in the middle boards, but its shortened length will cause an over-under reaction if bowlers venture too far inside and away from first arrow. The Free Loader does allow for multiple attack lines, but bowlers have to choose between either playing deep or along the gutter. Anything else; you're in for a long day. One characteristic of this pattern is that it changes very quickly. Don't get too comfortable staying in one place too long. Also, when bowlers change their target, the pattern has larger jumps between oil loads. This means a one board move inside may also be adding 5-6 feet of oil length or visa versa. Throw plastic at your spares and stay ahead of the carry down that will occur. Read what the lanes and your equipment is telling you! You are responsible for playing the lanes as they allow you to play them! This is only a reference guide, not the answer key.
